

SPOTLIGHT NOVEMBER 2004

THE SEEND SCHOOL PRIZEWINNERS AT THE FLOWER SHOW 12TH AUGUST, 2004:

For many years visitors to the Annual Seend Flower Show have enjoyed the sight of the colourful ranges of pictures and collages that have decorated and brightened the walls on either side of the main hall of Seend Social Club where the Show is staged. All of these works of art are the results of the imaginations and efforts of the pupils at Seend Village School, the very able guidance of their teachers, and the enthusiastic support of their Headmistress, Mrs. Christine Ramsay. Each year, the four classes, Holly, Oak, Sycamore and Chestnut, choose a theme and the pupils in each class translate their ideas into the pictures and collages that you see on the wall of the Seend Club on the day of the Show.

Prior to the Flower Show, a panel of Judges inspects all of the entries and has to make the difficult decisions as to which ones qualify for the First, Second and Third place in each class. In recent years the quality of the entries has been so high that the additional category "Highly Commended" has had to be introduced when the Judges have been unable to agree on an individual Third prize winner. The Judges have also to decide on the single entry, from any of the classes, which will be declared the overall winner and that entrant holds the Cup for a year.

So, one of the highlights of the year for the Flower Show Committee is the opportunity to say a big "Thank You" to Mrs. Ramsay, the Teachers, and the pupils of Seend School for all of their efforts, to present the awards to the winners in each of the four classes and also the overall winner.

As the School is on holiday at the time of the Show, the President and Secretary of the Flower Show attend the School on the first available Friday afternoon Assembly to make the individual presentations to the prize winners and also a donation to Mrs. Ramsay to cover the costs of the paints and materials that are used. Any surplus money will go towards planters and bulbs.

It is always a very happy event and the Committee hope and believe that this long standing relationship with the School is an encouragement, not only to the obvious artistic abilities of the pupils which are there for all of us to see, but also to their continuing interest in the Flower Shows of the future.

P.M. Fisher, President, Seend Flower Show Committee.

An apology from the Editor:

In October Spotlight the date given for the retirement of the Revd. Stanley Pipet in August, 2005: This should have read August, 2006, with the new Minister arriving in September, 2006.

THANKS:

Mrs. Brenda McKinness would like to thank everybody who so kindly donated money in memory of her late husband Roy. £1,059.03p. has now been passed across to the Wiltshire Air Ambulance Appeal.

SEEND HARVEST SUPPER:

On Monday evening, the 4th October, in excess of 55 people in the W.I. Hall sat down to an excellent meal of cottage pie and mixed vegetables followed by a wide selection of puddings. After the meal there was twenty minutes of happy community singing with Margaret Willoughby at the piano and Gwyn Hopkins acting as conductor. This was followed by an auction of the Harvest Festival produce with Tony Hill acting as the auctioneer. In his own inimitable style he made the event a very amusing and profitable occasion.

The day after the supper the following verse was dropped through the Spotlight letter box:

Pies and veges flanked the wall, with puds and jellies big and small,
We all set to, enjoyed our food, with chat and wine all tasted good.
Then led by Gwyn we raised our voice, and first pressed Daisy to make her choice.
This must have sparked a terrible row, for next we asked "Whose kissing her now?"
By special request and without any trouble, Stanley beseeched us to keep blowing bubbles.
Then before we could stop the spread of a rumour, we switched our affections to "Lil of Laguna".
What am I bid, Tony asked as he raised, a well arranged basket of marrow and maize
Unfazed by the silence he added some honey and quickly the punters came up with their money.
Thick and fast the lots were offered, whilst Jeremy guarded the growing coffers,
In under an hour the auction was done and we all staggered home with the bargains we'd won.

YEARS GONE BY:

Have you ever wondered what life was like here in our villages in the "Olden Days?" We have books about Seend but they mainly explain the origins and describes the architecture. What did life hold for the villagers in the more recent past – the 20's, 30's, war time and on into the 50's and 60's?

During the summer John Smallshaw has been talking to a number of residents of Seend and Bulkington, many of whom were born here, to gather their reminiscences of Village life. Next month, for your Christmas reading, there will be a special supplement recalling the stories he has gathered. We shall hear about life at work, at school, in the home and countryside. Many recall life in the villages before mains water and drains, etc. – all the services so taken for granted these days. Many amusing memories have come to light, we even learn of the local speciality, the "Seend Bun"!

If you too know our villages well perhaps you can add to future research and record more memories to be passed on for posterity.

Jenifer Raby-Cox.

The ladies all agreed that the trip to Wadworth Brewery was an interesting experience. We joined the tour with a group of ladies from Holt and started with a visit to the stables to see the dray horses, followed by a detailed talk by the cooper about the traditional methods he uses to make beer barrels. There was a very welcome break during which we sampled some of the beers and then we resumed our tour of the brewery learning about the brewing process.

REALLY?

Spotlight is not the only publication to make an occasional mistake. Many other journals often write in a manner that is not quite what they meant to say. The following items are reputedly taken from various Church notices although Spotlight is unable to authenticate them -

This afternoon there will be a meeting in the South and North ends of the Church. Children will be baptised at both ends.

Wednesday, the Ladies Liturgy Society will meet. Mrs. Jones will sing "Put me in my little bed" accompanied by the Pastor.

SEEND GARDENING CLUB:

Julia Scott, at our October Meeting, gave a useful and interesting account of her herb nursery in Worcester when looking for more land, she and her husband came across the ideal place – the site of a Victorian walled garden, right in the centre of the town. She uses her herbs for cooking, medication, to control her compost heap to keep flies at bay, etc. She has had visits from Rick Stein, Chris Beardshaw and Monty Din, so you might have seen her on T.V.

She recommended Lemon Verbena tea for those who have difficulty in sleeping. It can be bought from health food shops. Wormwood (Artemisia absinthium) is the most bitter of all herbs, but was a useful strewing herb, as insects loath it: highly recommended for keeping wasps away. Grow Sweet Cicely to use as a replacement for sugar in cooking. Don't pick it from hedgerows, you could make a mistake and pick hemlock which is of the same family.

Julia uses a mixture of five herbs as an activator on her compost heap, to produce a good compost in six weeks. These are just a few of the many tips that she gave as well as growing hints.

On 9th November, Robert Allwood will speak on "Garden Facts & Fallacies". The monthly competition is "In the Pink". Hopefully this will give you many ideas, so surprise us! The meeting starts at 7.30p.m. in the Pavilion. Newcomers are very welcome.

Joyce Brand.

RURAL ARTS WILTSHIRE:

The concert by Duo del Fuego on 3rd October was, as anticipated, an absolute delight. It was a real privilege to have such talented musicians playing in our humble little Pavilion! And thanks to those who helped run the raffle and pour the teas – i.e. Ric, Nicky and Lynne! We made around £100 for the Lye Field. Watch out for the next event in the Spring.

SEEND SHUTTLE:

We need to make another plea for volunteer drivers who can help out on the scheduled services – especially Thursdays. It doesn't have to be every week – just once in a while would be a great help. ### Seend Summer Fete – 2005: A Fairly Important Notice:

The open meeting of 5th October, 2004 was intended to recruit assistance in the organisation and running of the Fete. It was not entirely successful – in fact it was completely unsuccessful, as only the current (depleted) Committee turned up ... which was both disappointing and surprising as we were under the impression that the Fete is regarded in the Village as A Good Thing, and Something Worth Supporting, not only for its direct benefit to the Village, but as an important facet of rural life. If you don't want to join the committee, not a problem, there are many other ways you can help. So for those among you who would have attended the meeting but for other commitments, don't worry, you can still offer your support by phoning me, Bernie Prolze on 828391, or emailing bjprolze@uko2.co.uk. The need is slightly greater than it was on 5th October, but there is plenty of time left to include your assistance in our planning.

Bernie Prolze.

Village History – a little bit more -

Spotlight has received many favourable comments for its occasional items on local history as well as requests for more such information . It may not be generally known but in the County Archives in Trowbridge there is a most interesting record of life in Seend for the period from 1873 until the end of 1916. This record is a collection of the Parish annual reports that were then prepared by the then minister, the Revd. Arthur Barough Thynne.

Prior to 1872 Seend was a “chapelry” of Melksham under the provisions of a Pastoral Reorganisation Act of 1838. This eventually received royal approval from the Queen and Council in 1873 and Seend became an independent parish and this was the year that Canon Thynne was appointed.

From his annual reports it would appear that Seend was a wealthy parish, wealthy that was for the upper class of the day. He recorded that the Parish comprised 2,668 acres with an estimated gross rental of £9,997-13s. When he started his ministry the population of the United Kingdom would have been in the region of 38 million people and in 1879 when he started to record general details of the Parish he tells us that the population of Seend was 1,017 people which would have included children. (Today, the population is around 922 of voting age plus children).

Every January he produced a detailed report of the year’s work of the Church and its many related activities. The first one for the year ended 31st December, 1873, is headed “Statement of the Accounts of the Parish Charities” and these were accounts that were to become more numerous. He reported on the operational and financial progress of the School, the Coal Club, the Shoe Club, and the Clothing Club. (At a time when the majority of people were very poorly paid, clubs such as these were designed to help them to save small amounts of money in order to acquire these items.) He also listed payments to the Organ Blower and Bell Ringer (George Tavener) and to the Organist (B.Shaw). He records charitable donations to the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel in Foreign Parts and to the Church Missionary Society. He also identified the need for a new chancel.

Canon Thynne clearly devoted great energy to his task and he appears as a one man Social Services Department. To the above he added at least, a daily Reading Room in the Cleeve, a lending library that was free to villagers (books exchanged in the Parish Room at 4.00p.m. on Mondays), a Maternity Society and a Soup Kitchen. (A quart, or two pints, of soup was sold for one penny between 12noon and 6.00p.m. on Wednesdays and Saturdays. It should be recalled that prior to decimalisation some 100 years later, there were 240 pennies to the £1.)

The list grows. A Needlework Society was held during the winter months. There was a Flower Society which, on Mondays, sent flowers on the mid-day train to hospitals in London. There was a Working Party for the London Poor and, in conjunction with the Post Office, a Penny Bank. In one annual review he reported on eighteen sets of accounts with all of them accounting down to one farthing. (¼d. or one fourth of one old penny).

Not all of his ventures stood the test of time. In 1884 he formed a Workmen’s Club which lasted ten years. Membership fees were five shillings (25p) a year, a sum of money which, at that time, would be beyond the means of a good many people. Somewhat despairingly, or perhaps naively, he stated “A want is felt of more honorary members”. The Club rules precluded women from joining but they could make annual donations!

He was also disappointed by his lack of progress with his branch of the Church of England Temperance Society, In 1898 he complained that there is “Too much drinking. Of the 70 members, 31 are adults of whom “too many are lukewarm and have no real active interest in the work”. (Even today there are people in the Parish who have been known to take an occasional drink!)

He had previously been disappointed in his report for 1894. The Local Government Act of that year had required the formation of Parish Councils and he had hoped to see some of the agricultural elected to the Council. Instead, the same names of the more privileged inhabitants continued to appear. They had given up some of their roles with various voluntary activities and were now working voluntarily on the Parish Council. He was quite up-beat about another item of new from the same year. There had been a formation of a Seend Volunteer Squad which had been attached to the Melksham Company and eleven men from Seend had joined. He wrote "With such an efficient body of protectors now living amongst us, Seend surely need have no fear of invasion by foreign foe".

It is interesting to read of his comments as the year 1900 closed. He stated "One hundred years is not a very long period, yet what marvellous change has come over, not only this country, but the whole world. We cannot realise what life would be without steam, electricity, penny postage, cheap bread, free education, and many other things which now lead to the happiness of life."

He also commented on the major events that took place. The War in the Transvaal, the death of Queen Victoria and the coronation of King Edward VII on June 26th, 1901. Edward's reign was fairly short and he was succeeded by King George V whose coronation was on June 22nd, 1911. This was celebrated in grand style and included in Village events were, at 2.30p.m., athletic events on the Manor Field. At 5.00p.m. and after receiving Coronation Mugs, 220 children sat down to "a substantial tea". This was followed by a meat tea for 440 adults with a similar tea being sent to 40 other people who had been unable to attend. They then "indulged" in dancing until 9.00p.m. when the bonfire was lit.

He referred to World War One which prompted more charitable acts. In the first six months of the war a working party from the Parish had made 209 articles of clothing for 115 Belgium refugees and 94 comforts in the form of shirts, belts, mittens and socks for British troops.

After 43 years service to the Parish, Canon Thynne retired at the end of 1916 at the age of 76. Although there were strong class distinctions at the time with a great gap of income between the relatively rich people and the very many poor people he seems to have gone to great efforts to make the Parish of Seend more socially equitable. His life's work was his Parish and his Parish was his life.
