← Captain Samuel Meredith, First Chief Constable

1867

For some time past a rumour has been circulated throughout the county, that Captain Meredith, who has so efficiently and satisfactorily held the office of Chief Constable from the first formation of the Constabulary Force, contemplated resigning. We are not only pleased to contradict such statement, but to add, upon good authority that the worthy chief constable never had, nor has, any such intention. Devizes and Wiltshire Gazette, 22 August 1867
